Our story

As we developed the DiDuett concept, our fascination with furniture became stronger. We understand how certain products can make homes truly fascinating and welcoming. More people started to feel the same way and our community expanded.

As consumers ourselves, we know the difficulties of finding the perfect piece, even among countless options. With our experience as designers, we could easily identify quality and attention to detail. We wanted to create a brand that people could trust, both for its excellent quality and attractive appearance. We wanted to offer a range of products that people could rely on again and again.

We started to create our product line, mixing classic styles with modern ideas. In the end we carefully select the pieces we really love. DiDuett has continually grown, and we always think a lot about each product we offer. Even as design trends change, we remain true to our original goal: lovingly creating beautiful pieces and taking you along on the journey.
